be made up by the following able corps of make-up artists: "Billy" Adams, "Gus" Murphy, and last, but by no means least, "Red" Cope. Their efforts will be noticed by those who see the performance.

The parade will start from the Hotel Baths at 1:30 and Berger's band will lead the way. Then will come the performers, led by Manager Walter Doyle, dressed in a Prince Albert coat, which he borrowed from Jack Atkinson, and a tall hat, which fits Lou Whitehouse better than anyone else. One after the other will come the dandies of the city and their fair ladies, though, if one notices carefully, he will see that some of these females have suspiciously large feet.

GOLF TOURNEY AT HALEIWA

The Haleiwa Golf Club held a tournament on Sunday last. The day was perfect and the course in splendid condition, which helped cause the best scores in the history of the club to be made. J. S. Orme carried off first prize, a handsome cup, with the splendid score of 57 less a handicap of 15, net score 72. O. P. Cox secured second prize with the net score of 80. Many other good scores were made during the day.

There is every indication of a big entry for the open tournament to take place on January 1 and good scores should result as the links are in excellent condition.

PACIFIC SOCIAL CLUB AT SAN ANTONIO HALL

An overwhelming success greeted the efforts of the Pacific Social Club Committee in the leap year hop given at San Antonio hall last night.

Promptly at 8:15, music, rendered by the Iolani Glee Club, announced the opening of the ball with the grand march. The figures were original and artistic, and the march was successfully led by the following couples: A. K. Vierra, Miss Cunningham; Enos Vincent and Virginia Perry. The gathering was a large and most congenial one, and all present enjoyed themselves throughout the evening, the dancing breaking up in the small hours of morning.

The committee consisting of ten ladies, were neatly attired in beautiful gowns of choice muslin each wearing a regalia of rich yellow satin with a large rosette. Following are the members: Mrs. N. M. Johnson, Mrs. C. Evensen, Misses M. Cunningham, Carrie Borges, Alvina Parmenter, M. Neilson, Rosalie Parmenter, Virginia Perry, Victoria Neilson, Jessie Souza.

THE HAWAIIAN POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The third annual exhibit of the Hawaiian Poultry Association will be the largest and finest show yet held. Entries are coming rapidly for the big show from every quarter and an unusual amount of interest is being taken in it.

The public will be given a treat in the number and variety of the birds on show. Some of the varieties are exhibited for the first time in Honolulu, and many are very valuable specimens.

In connection with the splendid poultry display the Board of Forestry and Agriculture, the Farmers' Institute and the Hawaiian Experiment Station will give a supplementary exhibit which will be a great attraction. Between the four, the public may expect an unusually large and instructive show.

The Poultry Show will be held in the drill shed building, located at 11 inclusive. All entries should be made with the secretary, who is located at The Waterbury Co., Ltd., building.

DID DRUCE CASE INSPIRE ROMANCE?

PARIS, December 14.—The remarkable Druce case, which is occupying some of the English courts and is fascinating two continents, has also caused great interest in France, where a mystery is always welcomed.

Camille Maclair has written a letter to the press in which he throws a new and curious light upon the affair. Nobody has noticed the coincidence which the distinguished author points out: Villiers de L'Isle-Adam, in one of his "Contes Cruels," which was published more than twenty-five years ago, relates the history of a Duke of Portland, who, having been attacked with leprosy through having during a journey in Asia shaken a beggar by the hand, died after remaining obstinately invisible to his friends.

The story, the title of which is "The Duke of Portland," further alludes to a secret message sent by the duke to Queen Victoria, who burned it. In the reports of the history of the present affair, we are told of a guarded communication from the queen with regard to the rights of the family, which are now disputed.

Did Villiers de L'Isle-Adam know anything of this mysterious affair and would his story confirm the contention of Druce?

J. Maclair, alluding to the well-known tradition that the Duke of Portland made underground passages and created a double personality for himself on account of the misanthropical character he had acquired through his disease (which one of the Druces claims to have inherited from him), adds that the great French writer whom he quotes and who evidently knew something of this case, showed in many circumstances a remarkable prevision of contemporary events.

A French lady living in Paris, named Mme. Valette, has turned up claiming to be the granddaughter of the late Duke of Portland. She says that about the middle of the last century Mr. Druce, who was known as a wealthy London merchant, with a large business in Baker street, visited Paris and stayed at a pension in the Avenue des Champs Elysees.

The establishment was kept by a lady with whom it is alleged, Druce fell in love. Intimate relations followed and a son was born, who was given his father's name. Mr. Druce paid a large sum of money for the boy's education. When the son grew up he married and the daughter born of this union is the present claimant, Mme. Valette. This lady in turn married and for years kept a tobacco shop in the Boulevard Montparnasse.

Mr. Druce is stated to have paid frequent visits to Paris to see his son and granddaughter. On one occasion he had a long conversation with the former and instructed him to go to Australia and find the whereabouts of another son by another woman. Mme. Valette believes this son is George Hollanby Druce, the present claimant to the Portland estates.

Mme. Valette's father, on his return to Paris, was murdered by ruffians in the street and his pocketbook, containing important papers, stolen. After the Franco-German war Mme. Valette received news that her grandfather was dead. Yet she was greatly astonished some months later to see "Mr. Druce" walk into her shop. "I thought you were dead?" she said. "Yes," he replied, "Druce is dead, but Portland is alive." She never, however, saw him again. Mme. Valette is now 64 years of age and says she has papers to prove her statement.

LONG AND BUSY LIFE OF L. P. TENNEY, OF HONOLULU

L. P. TENNEY.

"When I see all the little folks running around in their bare feet at this season of the year I am reminded of my boyhood days back in Orwell, Vermont, where I was born June 11, 1825," said Lorenzo P. Tenney to a representative of the Advertiser the other day. Mr. Tenney is one of the landmarks of Honolulu and if not personally is known by sight to all of the business men of the place. Though more than eighty-two years of age he is still active and attends to his duties as collector and bill clerk of the Castle estate every day.

He was a farmer boy in the "Green Mountain" state where rocks are as numerous as it is possible to imagine and in 1846 he decided to move west and grow up with the country.

"When I passed through Chicago on my way to Milwaukee there were about 16,000 in the city and it didn't seem to be much of a place, not enough to hold me anyway, so I moved on to where my friends had gone and when I reached Milwaukee they told me I was wise not to stop long in Chicago as it was built on a swamp and would never amount to much.

"About a year after I got to Milwaukee I saw a man on the street showing a bag of nuggets which he said he had picked himself and they looked mighty tempting," continued Mr. Tenney with an expression that showed he was reminiscing. "This fellow had dug the gold away out in California and I couldn't resist the temptation to make inquiry. What he told me was enough, so another young fellow and I formed a partnership and in the latter part of '49 we left for California, going by the way of the Isthmus and reaching the coast city in May, 1850. I didn't waste any time in the city but pushed on to Nevada City, a new mining camp, and started in to investigate. I found the hill diggings were being opened, so I located a lot of claims and sunk a shaft and about the time it was done my next neighbor ambled along and told me I had staked so many claims that the government would likely take the best of them away from me. He suggested that I take a partner as best way out of it. He even suggested a friend of his and brought around a tall, white-haired chap whom he introduced as 'White-Headed Bill'.

"We formed the partnership and in three months we had taken out three thousand dollars apiece. Bill has since become pretty well known as Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada, for which state he served three terms in the United States Senate.

I sold out my interests and went to road building and in December, 1852, I went back to Illinois and bought a herd of sheep and started across the plains with them, California being my objective point, but it was a wet spring and I did not get farther than Salt Lake City. I lived with the Mormons there until early in '54, when I started for California, arriving there in July."

Mr. Tenney sold his sheep and made another try at mining but met with poor success. In '61 he located in Austin, Nevada, and six years later went into a new camp called White Pine where he was elected mining recorder, an office he held for two terms and during this service recorded thirteen thousand claims. Three towns were built up in his vicinity—Treasure Hill, with five thousand inhabitants, Hamilton, at the foot of the mountain, with six thousand, and Shesman town, with two thousand.

"In that section there were no low surface and soon worked out. The Everhart was one of the best mines of the lot and only about two million dollars were taken from it," continued the old gentleman.

A desire to get into civilization prompted him to go to San Francisco in 1869 and while there he dipped into mining stocks more than was good for him. Twenty years later his health was poor and he sought a better climate than that of San Francisco and decided on Honolulu. He left the coast about that time and arrived here in February, 1889. Since residing here his life is too well known to require publishing. Mr. Tenney has been connected with the office of the Castle estate for over seven years. He was guide to Ewa plantation for five years, making more than a hundred trips to the mill with tourists and never once accepting a fee for his services. He recently gave up his position as guide to Ewa, owing to poor health, and now belongs to the staff of the Castle estate, in which he takes a lively interest. His faculties are clear and he does a lot of walking between the office of the estate and the banks and mercantile houses every day.

For a number of years he took a deep interest in the meteorological table kept by W. R. Castle, recording the temperature and rainfall of Honolulu.

BIBLE READING MOVEMENT, READING FOR JANUARY 1.

MATTHEW

GENEALOGY OF JESUS.

1 The book of the generation of Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham.

2 Abraham begat Isaac; and Isaac begat Jacob; and Jacob begat Judah and his brethren; 3 and Judah begat Perez and Zerah of Tamar; and Perez begat Hezron; and Hezron begat Ram; 4 and Ram begat Amminadab; and Amminadab begat Nahshon; and Nahshon begat Salmon; 5 and Salmon begat Boaz of Rahab; and Boaz begat Obed of Ruth; and Obed begat Jesse; 6 and Jesse begat David the king.

7 And David begat Solomon of her that had been the wife of Uriah; 8 and Solomon begat Rehoboam; and Rehoboam begat Abijah; and Abijah begat Asa; 9 and Asa begat Jehoshaphat; and Jehoshaphat begat Joram; and Joram begat Uzziah; 10 and Uzziah begat Jotham; and Jotham begat Ahaz; and Ahaz begat Hezekiah; 11 and Hezekiah begat Manasseh; and Manasseh begat Amon; and Amon begat Josiah; 12 and Josiah begat Jechoniah and his brethren, at the time of the carrying away to Babylon.

13 And after the carrying away to Babylon, Jechoniah begat Shealtiel; and Shealtiel begat Zerubbabel; 14 and Zerubbabel begat Abiud; and Abiud begat Eliakim; and Eliakim begat Azor; 15 and Azor begat Sadoc; and Sadoc begat Achim; and Achim begat Eliud; 16 and Eliud begat Eleazar; and Eleazar begat Matthan; and Matthan begat Jacob; 17 and Jacob begat Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ.

18 So all the generations from Abraham unto David are fourteen generations; and from David unto the carrying away to Babylon fourteen generations; and from the carrying away to Babylon unto the Christ fourteen generations.

19 Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When his mother Mary had been betrothed to Joseph, before they came together she was found with child of the Holy Spirit. 20 And Joseph her husband, being a righteous man, and not willing to make her a public example, was minded to put her away privily. 21 But when he thought on these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit. 22 And thou shalt call his name Jesus: for it is he that shall save his people from their sins. 23 Now all this is come to pass, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying, 24 Behold, the virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel: which is, being interpreted, God with us. 25 And Joseph arose from his sleep, and did as the angel of the Lord commanded him, and took unto him his wife; 26 and knew her not till she had brought forth a son: and he called his name Jesus.

HER BOYS WERE ON THE ARTHUR SEWALL

There was an affecting scene at the Hackfeld wharf yesterday shortly after the docking of the S. S. Siberia, Fefecta, one of the lei sellers, having learned for the first time of the loss of the ship Arthur Sewall and the probable death of all the members of her crew among the savages of South America. In the most casual way possible the woman, who is part Hawaiian and part Spanish, and who is one of the best known of all the lei women along the waterfront, asked Water-front Officer Reeves when the Sewall was expected. Reeves replied that she had been lost with all hands and was never expected to return.

This information had a startling effect on the woman, who staggered and nearly fell and then burst into a paroxysm of weeping, rocking herself back and forth and sobbing convulsively.

"My three boys are gone," she sobbed, repeating this statement time and time again, while a curious crowd collected about her. Her weeping lasted for some minutes before she regained control of herself, and the tears ran down her face for long afterwards, while she paid no further attention to the crowds of travelers and prospective purchasers that passed her display of leis and beadwork. It was thought at first, from her statement, that she had had some sons among the ill-fated crew of the Sewall, but she later explained that the three boys for whom she mourned were only adopted sons, being three of five Filipino sailors who shipped on the Sewall from this port and who had been mothered by her during the months they had stayed in Hawaii. She had received a letter from one of them some months ago saying that he and two others were coming back to Honolulu on the Sewall to see her, the other two having shipped in a Liverpool-bound vessel. Every day for weeks she has been watching for the arrival of the vessel with her boys, but had never made inquiry regarding the delay of the big ship before yesterday.

HELD BY COURT
MAGOON RESIGNSJudge De Bolt Rules He Ought
to Collect Brash Estate Claim.

Judge De Bolt, at the conclusion of the Brash estate hearing, denied the application of J. Alfred Magoon, administrator, for discharge.

At the same time the court found that the status of A. F. Judd, as guardian of Susan Brash, was not clear. His ward for some time before her death was entitled to her share of the fire claim award in question, but it had never been reduced to possession by the guardian. It was very important, and the duty of the guardian, that he should preserve all of the property in his possession, but the court did not see how he could claim as guardian, after her death, property which he had not reduced to cash.

Mr. Magoon expostulated with the court, after the decision, saying he could not do the impossible.

Judge De Bolt did not consider the collection of the $800 fire claim award an impossibility.

In the afternoon Mr. Magoon filed his resignation as administrator, as reported below.

THE COURT'S DECISION.

Judge De Bolt's decision with regard to Mr. Magoon's application for discharge was substantially as follows:

"This matter comes before the court on the motion of Mr. Patrick Gleason, as administrator of Susan Brash, deceased, and also the motion of Mrs.
Robson, by her attorney, E. M. Watson, asking that Mr. Magoon, as administrator with the will annexed of the estate of William Brash, deceased, file his accounts of said estate.

"In response to which Mr. Magoon files the following application as it is termed"—(the court quotes the application of Magoon for discharge).

"The only question, I take it, and as the evidence clearly tends to show, is as to this claim of $800 awarded by the Fire Claims Commission. As to the clerical error described in this case as that of J. Brash in the body of the application, which is signed as Wm.
Brash, I take it as wholly immaterial.
It is a mere clerical error and clerical errors can not harm and should not harm anyone or vitiate any transactions.

"This application is expressed on its face as informal, not in accordance with the strict rules of pleading, but, however that may be, it is clearly apparent from the instrument itself, as well as disclosed by the evidence, that it was an application on behalf of the Brash estate and for the value of property destroyed by fire in the suppressing of bubonic plague in Honolulu in 1900. And, as I view the matter, it is wholly immaterial who made the application or how the application was made.

"The Commissioners were satisfied that the estate was entitled to an award and accordingly did make an award of $800 for the benefit of the estate. Therefore the estate then had a valid claim as evidenced by the judgment and award.

"This brings us to the point as to whether or not this award can be considered real property or personal property. We must not overlook the fact that the claim in the first instance—a destruction of real property—might be deemed real property, and when that claim is in the form of a judgment then we must look upon it as a judgment, just as notes given for rent of real property are considered personal property. I consider the award and the judgment rendered by the Commissioners in this matter personal property.

"It being personal property—it being the claim to which the estate was entitled, it seems to me also clear, and necessarily following as a legal conclusion, that the administrator was bound to proceed in the collection of it.

"The fact stated in his application for discharge, that he never received any property and never had in his possession any property belonging to the estate, can not justify his discharge when it appeared, that there was property, or a claim, belonging to the estate uncollected.

"It is the duty of the administrator to collect claims of the estate as well as to preserve the property coming into his possession as administrator, and so in this case, upon all the facts and circumstances disclosed by the record and by the testimony, I will be bound to find that this claim was personal property, that it was a claim to which the Brash estate was entitled, and that it was the duty of the administrator to proceed to collect it.

"Of course the administrator, as would be the case with anyone else, is not obliged to do the impossible.
If it is impossible to collect this claim, which, however, has not been disclosed by the evidence so far, why, he might be released from further obligation."

After referring to the status of Judd as guardian, the court held it the duty of Magoon as administrator to reduce any existing claim of the estate to cash.
Hence he denied the application for the administrator's discharge.

WHY AN IMPOSSIBILITY.

Mr. Magoon, to an Advertiser reporter outside of court, explained why he deemed it impossible to collect the award in present circumstances. It was that the tenants whose improvements were destroyed in the fire refused to come into any negotiation for less than the entire award. They lost buildings claimed to have cost $3000. In other cases of divided claims the parties agreed to have the awards collection and deposited subject to adjudication in the courts. Where, as in the present matter, the claimants refused to come together thus, the only thing left was to bring suit against them.

This, Mr. Magoon puts out, would cost money and he has none to throw away on other people's affairs.

MAGOON RESIGNS.

J. Alfred Magoon in the afternoon filed his resignation as administrator of the estate of William Brash, deceased, to which office he says he was appointed on June 8, 1902, by Chief Justice A.
F. Judd.

He goes on to say that, as such administrator, he never received or paid out any money for the estate, nor has there been any personal property in the estate, nor any claim due to or owing by the estate, other than that an award was made by the Fire Claims Commission in the name of J. Brash on June 21, 1902, for $800, "being damages for the destruction, long after the decease of said Wm. Brash, of

HOW HARRY VOSS WAS KILLED
ON PORTO RICO PLANTATION

Aguirre, Porto Rico, Dec. 9, 1907.

Editor Advertiser: I am enclosing you a letter which I received from a Judge, N. B. K. Pettingill, advising me of the death of Mr. Harry C. Voss.
Many people in Honolulu and Hawaii will remember Mr. Voss. At one time he was chief engineer at Ewa plantation. He was well known and had a great many friends there, who will be sorry to hear of his sudden death.

Mr. Voss was the chief engineer here at Aguirre with me for three years, and he left us to go into business for himself in the mechanical line, and a sugar company at the place of Alta-gracia, near Mayaguez, made a contract with him to put their mill in shape and take off the coming crop.
He had just returned from a business visit to New York City for the company, and was getting things in shape when the fatal accident occurred.

Mr. Voss, I believe, was born in San Francisco, at any rate, he was born somewhere in the state of California.
He was a man that I personally thought a great deal of, and his sudden death was a dreadful shock to me.

Yours very truly,

W. J. LOWRIE.

Mayaguez, Dec. 1, 1907.
My Dear Mr. Lowrie: I intended writing you yesterday about the heart-rending accident we had the day before at the Altargracia, but we were busy all the forenoon with the funeral and I did not get time later. I presume you have heard rumors of the certain buildings on land belonging to William Brash at the time of his decease, situate on Alakea street, Honolulu." It is further declared:

"That petitioner has made every reasonable effort to collect said claim but has been unable to collect it, and petitioner believes that, in order to collect said claim, it is necessary to bring suit against persons also claiming interests therein and subject to whose interest the said award was made.

"That petitioner has no money in his hands belonging to said estate with which to pay costs of court and to engage counsel in said matter, and petitioner has no way of collecting said award nor enforcing payment thereof."

He prays for an order of court accepting his resignation and appointing some suitable person in his stead.

occurrence, but as those are always more or less incorrect, and as I know how much you thought of our poor friend Voss, I feel that I should write you the particulars.

You know about Voss' going to New York to advise with Valdes about the purchase of certain machinery.
Among the things he examined and approved were two oil engines, one of which was for running the big water pump, and the other and smaller one for running the machine shop and electric light plant. The latter had been in occasional use for the machine shop and Voss himself was starting it up just as Valdes and I arrived from San Juan by the day train. A few moments after it started—and while I had gone to the office to answer a telephone message—Voss left it, but it at once began to pound and he returned to it. From this time it is impossible to tell just what happened, but it appears that Voss tried to stop it but before he could do so it seemed to increase frightfully in speed and in the flash of an eye the fly wheels had both broken and poor Voss, who stuck to his effort to control it, was hit in a dozen places and instantly killed and his body considerably mutilated. It seems that one of the first blows must have taken the larger part of the top of his head entirely off. Two other workmen were injured, but only slightly. It seems a miracle that others were not hurt for both Farrington and Ben Cornwell were hurrying to Voss' assistance, and if the wheels had held ten seconds more there would doubtless have been three victims instead of one.

The big Pacific Mail liner Siberia arrived at the Hackfeld dock yesterday morning at 10:50, after a fine trip from San Francisco, marred only by a couple of days when she felt heavy swells. She had on board eighty-two passengers in the first cabin, for this port, and thirty-two tons of local freight. She entered the harbor just as the Matson Navigation Company's steamship Hilonian was pulling out, and was forced to stop to allow the smaller steamer to get past. In making her landing she struck the wharf quite hard, frightening some of the Honolulu people who were down to see their friends, but causing no great damage.

The passengers had a fine time on Christmas Day, and the dinner which was provided for that occasion by St. Ward Johnson is said to have been one of the finest ever served on a ship in the Pacific Ocean. A Christmas tree and dance followed the dinner, and all enjoyed themselves to the full limit.

The Siberia's through cargo consists of about 5000 tons of freight, which includes over 3000 tons of cotton being exported from the United States to Japan. She also has on board a shipment of silver valued at over half a million dollars.

from the Coast on the big liner were Bishop Restarick and wife, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Swamy, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hoogs and family, and J. A. Kennedy. The Siberia sailed for the Orient at 4:30 yesterday afternoon.

WILL CHANGE LIGHTS.

About January, the range lights, which aid the skippers of vessels which come into this harbor at night, will be changed. The front range light, now in the old lighthouse, will be shifted temporarily to the water tower, which has been erected nearby. The rear range light, which is now on the custom house, will be moved to the roof of the coal shed at the foot of Fort street.

It has become necessary to change the position of the front range light on account of the fact that the improvements to the harbor will necessitate the demolition of the present structure. For this reason the rear range light must also be moved. The erection of the new rear range light must be postponed for some little time, as there is not enough money in the appropriation for the work. On the old location, which was selected by the government engineers, the money would have been sufficient, but at the point where the structure is to be erected, the foundations will be much more expensive.

IMPROVE HARBOR.

It is expected that the first work on the improvement of Honolulu harbor will be started within the next week by the Hawaiian Dredging Co., the successful bidders for the contract. The dipper dredge, which was used in connection with the Alakea street slip, will be the first to be placed at work, but in a short time the suction dredge, which is now in Kahului, will be towed over and will take up its position.

With the dipper dredge, cars will be placed on a scow which will be hauled alongside of the dredger. These will be filled by the dredge and taken to a temporary wharf, where they will be run off on a track. In the meantime another scow with empty cars will be in place to take the dipperfuls from the dredge. All the material which is taken out will be used to build up Sand Island, on the Ewa side of the harbor entrance.

HILONIAN DEPARTS.

Amid shouts of farewell and the music furnished by Captain Henri Berger and his band, the Hilonian, with a large passenger list and big cargo of freight, sailed for San Francisco yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. There was some little trouble in relation to the wearing of flower leis by those going away, on account of the quarantine rules, but this difficulty was quickly ended and all departed happily. The Hilonian carried about 2200 tons of freight, the largest item of which was 1400 tons of sugar.

CHILCOTT ARRIVES.

The Associated Oil ship Marion Chilcott, from Gaviota, arrived yesterday afternoon, after a trip in fairly pleasant weather. She brought a full cargo of fuel oil for this city, which she will discharge at once. She will then start back to the Coast.

A FRIEND OF HAWAII TELLS ABOUT US

The Amsterdam, N. Y., Morning Sentinel has the following to say of Mrs. W. J. Kline, a lady known in Honolulu:

The meeting of the Century club yesterday afternoon, the program for which was arranged by Mrs. Martin L. Stover and Mrs. W. J. Kline, was largely attended and a thoroughly enjoyable one. The first number was a soprano solo by Miss Nellie Kaufman, who sang (a) "The Skylark's Song," by Dudley Buck, and (b) "Florian's Song," by Godard. Mrs. John Sanford then read a paper on "Reminiscences of Belgium," a topic on which Mrs. Sanford's life, as daughter of the American minister at Brussels, renders her eminently qualified to speak. The paper, which was very ably prepared and well delivered, denoted the observations of a resident rather than a tourist. At the conclusion of the paper, piano solos were given by Miss Hyland, she rendering "Polonaise," by Moczowski, and "Bans" by Tchaikowski.

Mrs. W. J. Kline then gave a paper on "Recollections of Hawaii." The paper was an exceedingly interesting one, including the observations and experiences of Mrs. Kline while on an extended visit to the Hawaiian group. The program was concluded with a soprano solo by Miss Elizabeth Stover, whose selections were (a) Hawaiian air, and (b) "Without Thee," by D'Hardelot.

THE REMEDY.

"I suffer dretful from corns," remarked an elderly citizen who was waiting for a car. "They make life a burden to me."

"I can tell you of a remedy," declared the man with mouse-colored whiskers, "that will drive away your corns within forty-eight hours."

"You kin?"

"I can."

"I'll be eternally grateful to you, mister."

"Don't mention it, my good man. Whenever I can relieve a suffering mortal, I am only too glad. Now you just practice deep breathing."

But the elderly citizen snorted indignantly and walked off muttering.

TAKING CHANCES

"Mister, ain't you afraid to sic yer dorg onto me?"

"Nix. Why should I be?"

"How do you know I ain't representin' some magazine, investigatin' de standin' of dis community as regards horspitality to strangers? Why, man, I might go an' write an article on dis affair dat would hold back yer miserable hamlet fer 200 years!"

KEEN FOR BUSINESS.

OVER $40,000 IN LAW COSTS

Claimed for Four Defendants to Lowrie's Suit—Other Court News.

In the action for $400,000 damages of William J. Lowrie against Henry P. Baldwin and others, Castle & Withington yesterday filed a motion for judgment to dismiss the action as to Mary Tenney Castle Hitchcock, Harriet Castle Coleman, Caroline Castle Westervelt and Helen Kingsbury Mead, respectively, and that each of these defendants recover of plaintiff her costs and attorneys' fees taxed at $10,000.37. Separate tax bills are filed, the four amounting to $40,025.48.

As ground of the motion it is stated that these persons were not made parties defendant in the amended complaint.

Another motion filed by Castle & Withington is to quash service of summons on defendant S. N. Castle Estate, Ltd.

Judge Robinson allowed all of the papers here mentioned to be filed, continuing the matter therein until Monday, January 6, at 10 a. m.

THOMAS CAREY'S WILL.

James T. Carey has petitioned for probate of the will of Thomas Carey, he to be appointed administrator with the will annexed. Mary Carey, widow of the testator, renounced her appointment as executrix and recommended the appointment of her son above named. His two brothers and two sisters, who are the children of age, asked James T. Carey in writing to assume the trust. Thomas Carey left his estate to his nine children. It consists of real estate valued at $7700 and personally at $100.

W. F. ALLEN ESTATE.

Mrs. Cordelia Church Allen, trustee under the will of William Fessenden Allen, has filed a receipt to herself as executrix for all of the personal property in the estate of her late husband, comprising $2927.50 in notes and mortgages, $500 in bonds, $2958.50 in Hawaiian stamps and $3844.25 in outstandings, besides stocks as follows: 50 shares Union Feed Co., 73 C. Brewer & Co., 67 Pioneer Mill Co., 156 Oahu Railway & Land Co., 98 McBryde Sugar Co., 50 Enterprise Mill Co., 2 Pacific Club, Hawaiian Star, 7 Hawaiian Trust Co., 10 Inter-Island Telegraph Co., 5 B. F. Dillingham Co., 50 Kern River Oil Co., 38 Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co., 38 Hawaiian Electric Co., 60 Waiatua Agricultural Co., 2 Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Co. and 5 Oahu Sugar Co.

VIVAS SEEKS DIVORCE.

J. M. Vivas of Walluku has brought a divorce suit against Mary D. Vivas of East Oakland, California, on the ground of desertion since May, 1904. They were married on this island December 31, 1887, and have three sons and three daughters, ranging from nineteen to six years of age, who are living with their mother.

Vivas says he has been contributing toward the maintenance of the children a monthly allowance according to his means, and is willing to contribute toward the maintenance of the minor children $30 a month until the youngest reaches the age of legal majority. Judge De Bolt allowed the libel to be filed without prepayment of costs. A. S. Humphreys is attorney for libellant, who is a well-known lawyer.

Nancy Calasopa by her attorney, Samuel F. Chillingworth, answers the libel in divorce of F. F. Calasopa, denying the allegations of cause.

PARTNERSHIP ACCOUNTS.

Judge De Bolt gave judgment for W. C. Rowe against S. Stephenson yesterday for $552.21 in a partnership accounts dispute. This was a modification of the finding by Job Batchelor to whom the matter was some time ago referred. The case has run along two years. Complainant and respondent were partners in the painter's trade and the kind of books they kept made the accounting an almost desperate affair.

APPEAL WITHDRAWN.

In the case of Territory of Hawaii v. Lottie Kane and William Larsen, the appeal of Larsen from the District Court of Honolulu has been withdrawn.

BLIND PIG FINES REDUCE THE PROFITS

One hundred dollars and costs appears to be the established figure for being caught running a blind pig, the second or third fine of that size being imposed by Judge Andrade in the police court yesterday, the victim in this case being Maria Augusta Coito, the wife of M. J. Coito, who runs a grocery store and the piggery annex at the corner of Miller and Punchbowl streets. Coito himself was not on hand when his better half set up the steins but he arrived in time to get arrested for attempting to rescue his wife from the clutches of the law by scuffling with Lieutenant Luahiwa. He was up for his trial yesterday, but had his case continued until January 3.

There were two other blind pig cases called, but neither of them went to trial. Mrs. Mignol, of Kakaia, was another woman who got into trouble by doing the bar maid stunt for her husband, her case going over until January 7, and T. J. Camaro, Luahiwa's latest catch, will appear again on the same day.

One jail sentence was passed, this being drawn by Ah Chin, a Chinese vagrant, who got ninety days.

A heavy fine for an assault was given to Imoto, a Japanese thug who made one of a party that pounded up a Chinaman in Iwilei recently. His identification as one of the gang cost him thirty dollars and costs.

The fifteen gamblers captured in the raid on the rooms over the coffee shop near the corner of King and Alakea street on Monday night by Joe Leal were all convicted. The fifteen represented two separate games, five of them being nipped between jackpots in a poker game and the other ten being paikau players. The poker players fought their case, which cost them ten cents more apiece than the paikau game. The fines of all amounted to $90.50.

JURISDICTION POINT IN HABEAS CORPUS

In the habeas corpus case of John Marks, the Territorially convicted horse thief, in the United States District Court yesterday, Attorney General Hemenway presented an amended return of High Sheriff Henry.

George A. Davis, for the petitioner, in rapid succession filed a motion to quash the return, a traverse of the return and an amended traverse. He argued on all these pleadings. The matter by this time looked like a ruined trestle bridge.

County Attorney Cathcart asked if the court was going to continue to exercise jurisdiction of the case, suggesting the impropriety of recourse to the Federal court in a criminal case wherein the right of appeal in the Territorial courts had not been availed of.

Davis maintained that the court had taken jurisdiction and should not let go.

Judge Dole was not so positive as counsel for petitioner on this point, but set the question of jurisdiction for argument on Saturday.

Habeas corpus in any event, according to high legal authority, is not regarded as proper to be used as a substitute for, or for the purpose of, an appeal.

RESALE OF LUKA.

Judge Dole yesterday ordered a resale of the schooner Luka to satisfy the adjudicated claims of three Japanese sailors. This was on motion of W. T. Rawlins, one of the proctors for libellants, and based on the failure of Geo. A. Davis, attorney, to pay the price of $1000 at which the vessel was knocked down to him at the first sale. Davis did not appear in court.

NEW YEAR MATINEE AT ORPHEUM TODAY

A special New Year matinee is to be given this afternoon at the Orpheum Theater, when "A Runaway Match" and the screen scene from "The School for Scandal" will again be presented. The matinees have proven extremely popular ever since Manager Cooley began his engagement here, and there is already sufficient of an advance sale to guarantee a big attendance this afternoon. The same program will be given tonight.

Tomorrow night the company will appear in another melodrama, entitled "Down by the Sea." This is a play of unusually strong plot, centering around two men who bear a striking resemblance to each other, one being a gentleman and the other an escaped convict. It can safely be promised that the play will prove pleasing, as it has been a big success not only in the United States, but England, where it was first produced.
